Feedback, is one of the most valuable processes you can implement in any business...agree?

In this month's newsletter, we wanted to provide some insight into our continuous improvement approach and how we facilitate and implement step change for both our team members and Customers as part of our culture.

Let's start with the 'why'. At Mojo Soup, just about nothing is static, not our team, not our business and certainly not our Customers. We employ practices to maintain awareness of our performance individually and collectively and to assist us in maintaining and exceeding performance goals.

The 'how' looks like this - internally, we have an employee management framework that in principle provides a high level of engagement throughout a
